

A black and white line drawing of a suona, a traditional Chinese wind instrument. The instrument is shown diagonally, with its flared bell at the bottom right and its flared mouthpiece at the top left. It features a long body with several finger holes and a small circular hole on the side. The background is a light-colored map of China, with labels for 'RUSSIA', 'MONGOLIA', and 'CHINA' visible. Other partially visible labels include 'CORIA DEL N.' and 'CORIA DEL S.'.
